Dear Mr. Lonsdale

I am writing to you regarding the freedom of information request which you have lodged with Murdoch university.

I am currently in the process of finalising your application and the accompanying documents, and have noticed that you would like these documents to provide to you in hard copy.

While I appreciate the sentiment behind this, I must draw your attention to the fact that we have over 500 documents relevant to your request. As a result of this it may be both impracticable and expensive to provide you with these documents in hard copy form.

Consequently I am writing to you to see if you would be amenable to us posting you a disk containing these documents instead?

In the event that this is not satisfactory, and you still wish to be provided these documents in hard copy form, I am required to inform you that you will incur a charge of any relevant printing and postage fees. Accordingly I ask you consider this when making your decision.

Regards,

Alexander Bellotti
